

Armor of God Scenarios

Read each scenario. Decide what armor of faith is needed to handle each situation. There could be more than one armor for each scenario. There is not just 1 right answer.

A friend says I am not worth playing with. She tells me I will never be good at anything. Am I worthless?

What armor do I need?

I am feeling discouraged and down. My dog has died and I feel a deep sadness. Will I be happy again?

What armor do I need?

My dad lost his job and hasn't worked for a few months. My parents tell me everything will be okay but we don't have money to do the things we used to do. Will God provide?

What armor do I need?

Mom started a new job. We all have to pitch in but everything is different now. No one does it like mom. I even missed an assignment at school today. Can I keep working through the chaos?

What armor do I need?

A friend tells me he is not sure God loves him. I know God does but I don't know how to show my friend. How can I show Him what God says about him?

What armor do I need?

My parents expect a lot from me. I know they want what is best for me but sometimes I want to act like other kids. They look like they have fun finding ways to bend the rules. Is it really important to obey?

What armor do I need?

Sometimes I have doubts about whether this is all real or not. Will Jesus really come back to save us?

What armor do I need?

I sometimes don't do what my parents or teachers tell me. I try to obey but sometimes it's hard. A person at church told me if I don't get better Jesus will stop forgiving me. Is that true? Will Jesus give up on me?

What armor do I need?

I studied hard for my test this week but right before class I start to have doubts. I wonder if I will remember all that I studied or if I'm smart enough to get a good grade. Before class I pray. Will God be with me during my test?

What armor do I need?

I see a homeless man in front of the store I am going into. He looks very hungry. I hear a small voice tell me to give him the snack I have in my bag. I try to push the voice aside but it keeps pulling me. I don't want to embarrass myself. Is this really what God wants me to do?

What armor do I need?

My friends want to steal candy off the teachers desk when no one is looking. I know that stealing is wrong but I don't want to be left out or teased. Should I do what is right and risk losing my friends?

What armor do I need?

I go to church on Saturday but a lot of my friends go on Sunday. When they ask me why, I don't just want to say because my parents say so. I'm not sure how to answer them. How do I know this is the day God set aside for worship?

What armor do I need?

Answer Key

A friend says I am not worth playing with. She tells me I will never be good at anything. Am I worthless?

What armor do I need? (truth)

I am feeling discouraged and down. My dog has died and I feel a deep sadness. Will I be happy again?

What armor do I need? (peace/faith)

My dad lost his job and hasn't worked for a few months. My parents tell me everything will be okay but we don't have money to do the things we used to do. Will God provide?

What armor do I need? (faith)

Mom started a new job. We all have to pitch in but everything is different now. No one does it like mom. I even missed an assignment at school today. Can I keep working through the chaos?

What armor do I need? (peace)

A friend tells me he is not sure God loves him. I know God does but I don't know how to show my friend. How can I show Him what God says about him?

What armor do I need? (sword bible)

My parents expect a lot from me. I know they want what is best for me but sometimes I want to act like other kids. They look like they have fun finding ways to bend the rules. Is it really important to obey?

What armor do I need? (righteousness)

Sometimes I have doubts about whether this is all real or not. Will Jesus really come back to save us?

What armor do I need? (salvation)

I sometimes don't do what my parents or teachers tell me. I try to obey but sometimes it's hard. A person at church told me if I don't get better Jesus will stop forgiving me. Is that true? Will Jesus give up on me?

What armor do I need? (truth)

I studied hard for my test this week but right before class I start to have doubts. I wonder if I will remember all that I studied or if I'm smart enough to get a good grade. Before class I pray. Will God be with me during my test?

What armor do I need? (peace/faith)

I see a homeless man in front of the store I am going into. He looks very hungry. I hear a small voice tell me to give him the snack I have in my bag. I try to push the voice aside but it keeps pulling me. I don't want to embarrass myself. Is this really what God wants me to do?

What armor do I need? (Faith)

My friends want to steal the candy off the teachers desk when no one is looking. I know that stealing is wrong but I don't want to be left out or teased. Should I do what is right and risk losing my friends?

What armor do I need? (righteousness)

I go to church on Saturday but a lot of my friends go on Sunday. When they ask me why, I don't just want to say because my parents say so. I'm not sure how to answer them. How do I know this is the day God set aside for worship?

What armor do I need? (sword)